A resident of Kearny and a graduate of North Arlington High School, Ms. McFadden brings in-depth knowledge of local communities as well as New Jersey bank management experience, having risen quickly through the ranks at three area banks.

“My goal for the Lyndhurst branch is to deliver the best financial products, personalized customer service and a community focus in our newest location,” said Ms. McFadden. “These are the hallmarks of Clifton Savings’ reputation in its other neighborhoods.” Grand opening of the Lyndhurst NJ branch, 401 Valley Brook Avenue, is scheduled for June 5th.

Since its inception in 1928 as the Botany Building and Loan Association, Clifton Savings has taken great pride in remaining true to its simple purpose: to establish a fund to assist people to acquire and improve real estate. And the bank’s commonsense lending procedure remains the same: loan to people who can carry the payments and check carefully the value of the secured properties. By staying true to its course, Clifton Savings has steadily grown into a public company with twelve branches in Passaic and Bergen Counties and assets over a billion dollars and is known as the Commonsense Bank with a personal touch.
